Walk summary:
Quiet lanes, a little known wooded clough and farmland combine to make an attractive and varied walk. Good views from the higher ground.

The Walk

① From the visitor centre turn left down to the bottom of the road then turn right in front of Lymefield Terrace and go ahead through the kissing gate to enter the Broad Mills area. (There are information boards at various locations explaining the history of this area, once the site of huge cotton mills).

③ Continue through the wood, up some steps to a kissing gate, do not cross the footbridge but climb up the steep tarmac path. Turn left past the end of a terrace of houses and follow the path to join a wider lane via a gate at the cottages of Summerbottom.

⑧ Where the path drops down to the stream cross the footbridge and swing to the right, re-cross the stream by a second footbridge.

⑩ Fork left and cross the fourth footbridge, then climb up the steps to the top, to emerge out of the wood onto open land, follow the path up beside the wooded valley on your right, go through the stile.
